INFANT LEFT ON BISHOP'S STOOP

Mysterious Woman Drives to Home of Lewis A. Merrill Saturday Night.

BASKET ON THE DOORSTEP CONTAINS BIT OF HUMANITY

Family Is Delighted, and Purposes to Adopt the Little Gentleman.

Neatly dressed and snugly tucked into a market basket, a pretty baby boy, not over three days old, was left on the front doorstep of the home of Bishop and Mrs. Lewis A. Merrill, at 968 Lake street, about 8 o'clock Saturday evening, and the members of the Merrill family are so highly pleased with the infant that they have decided to keep it.

The Merrill family, which is composed of Bishop and Mrs. Merrill and two daughters, 13 and 11 years of age respectively, were seated in the living room of their home when they heard a gentle tap on the window. Mrs. Merrill, thinking it was one of the neighbors desiring to speak with them. went to the door to let her in, and found the basket on the front doorstep. Not knowing what it contained, she took it into the lighted hall to investigate. She drew back the shawl which covered the top of the basket and there, soundly sleeping, was the infant, with its chubby little hands tightly grasping a sursing bottle.

Family Delighted.

Mrs. Merrill called her husband and Mrs. Merrill called her husband and two daughters to come and see what she had found, and they were no less delighted with the contents of the basket than was Mrs. Merrill.

There was nothing in the basket to indicate from whence the infant came or to whom it rightfully belonged.

Indicate from whence the infant came or to whom it rightfully belonged.

Bishop Merrill communicated with neighbors about the find, and one of them came to his home and told how she had seen a carriage drive down Belmont avenue and stop at the corner of Lake street and a woman alight with a basket. She heard the woman fell the driver of the vehicle to go slowly down the street and into the Merrill yard.

Merrill yard.

Shortly after the baby was found the telephone rang, and Mr. Merrill answered it. A woman's voice inquired if a bundle had been found on the front steps of his home, and, receiving a reply in the affirmative, quickly ended the conversation.

From the appearance of the clothing the baby came from people in good circumstances.

circumstances. In speaking about the affair Sunday night, Bishop Merrill said: "Yes, it is true we have a new member in our family, found on the front doorsteps Saturday night shortly after 8 o'clock. We are highly pleased with the little fellow, and my two daughters are so happy over the new baby that they are afraid some one will come and make claim to it.
"We shall give it a home and bring.

"We shall give it a home and bring up just as if it were our very own. We are too much surprised by the we are too much surprised by the sudden arrival of the infant to think of a name for it, but that will be done in due time.

TAKES A FLING AT POLITICAL PARTIES

Rev. William Thurston Brown Advocates Mixing Religion With Polities.

At the Unitarian church Sunday morning, the Rev. William Thurston Brown preached a sermon on "The Pending Conflict: Mastership versos Fellowship. ' In part he said:

There is a widespread consciousness which grows with every month among the people of our churches, for example, that omething is wrong. They do not know, for the most part, what is wrong, but they know that something is wrong, And they are going to find out sooner or later that the existing conditions and re-lationships of men to each other in our present society are absolutely subversive of religion and a denial of its noblest

The great need of the world today—and I know of none that compares with It in importance—is that men and women shall know that the new order of fellowship is at the doors. We need to see that the old ways are played out. We need to feel, and to feel deeply, that they are unworthy of us. We need to see that we are living under the present system a life that means not only insterial, but moral waste. We need to know that we can, any of us, have anything good only as it is shared with all others; that we can maintain a decent morality in ourselves only as we divote ourselves, bedy, mind and strength, to the task of insuring all that is good to every soul that mind and attength, to the task of insuring all that he good to every soul that lives.

How strange even the word "fellowship's sounds when you think of it in connection with the existing order of things. This order has no place for fellowship; there can be account thing as real or wide fellowship in a weight system. On the other hand, the very thought of a social and industrial order based on fellowship is a deeply religious conception. It is the most inspiring, invigorating, morally transforming idea men can know. And that idea is central to what is called socialism. Socialism would be on industrial system based on fellowship. That there is something essentially religious about it is indicated by the rise of a movement called "The Christian Socialist Fellowship." Why is it that no one thinks of organizing a Christian Republican fellowship? Because no one associates religion or anything vitally religious with either of those parties. Notice has any religious outlook or vision. They are organizations based on the idea that religion and politics are absolutely different and must not be mixed, on an idea of commerce and industry with which religion has nothing to do. That we have, on the other hand, such an organization which an increasing number of neen and women from our churches are all the time going, is itself an elequent witness to the fact that the socialist movement. In it and through it, as in and through to is an essentially religious movement. In it and through it, as in and through no other, are men and women all over the world becoming conscious of that deeper and diviner meaning of the world in which they live, which is a vital part of estileton.

And on through the different centuries the speaker traced the gradual development of labor and unionism, and assured his hearers that unionism was indispen-sable, dwelling on what it has done for the laboring classes, and what would be their condition if it were not for the their condition if it were not for the unions. If anything more were needed to rove The Tribune's contention that 'Uncle'' Jesse Knight was bounded and prayed with by the church coborts in the effort to force him to decline the Democratic nomination for Governor, it is supplied in the following well-authenticated story from Provo: day morning to the delegates to the convention of the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners of America and their friends.

It will be remembered that on last Tuesday morning Uncle Jesse, accompanied by his good wife, went to Logan on the special train provided for delegates. delegates, to attend the Democratic State convention, having been elected a delegate from the Fifth ward of Pro-vo. Neither will it require a very great stretch of the imagination to recall that the church when the Rev. Goshen began his address, which, as the text implies, was on the question of labor and the unions, and in a masterly manner he unions, and in a masterly manner he presented the story of labor, past, pressured the story of and quoted from history as far back as the Norman ebuquest, showing the atti-tude of the civilized world at that time, and reached his home between 9 and 10

''Inasmuch as many deaths have resulted from pestilence, and inasmuch as there is a scarcity of laborers, and in asmuch as the laborers have taken advantage of the employers' need, be it therefore resolved and enacted, that the wages of laborers shall be the scale paid in the twenty years of the king and of more tank his home between 9 and 10 o'clock Tuesday night.

Now for the milk in the church coonnut! About 1 o'clock of that same night, so the story goes, one A. S. She was informed that the midnight visitor had in the twenty years of the king and of more than the midnight visitor had a proposition of the control important business with the Democratic gubernatorial nominee and that it was absolutely essential that the interview take place at once. Mrs. Knight, hav-ing in mind the hard trip of the day, demucred, but Acord was insistent and finally Uncle Jesse, hearing the collo-

HISGEN WILL SPEAK AT THE SALT PALACE

Presidential Nominee of Mr. Hearst's Independence Party the Attraction.

Local representatives of the Independence party hope that William Randolph Hearst may join the presidential party in this city today and speak at the meeting which is to be held in the Salt Palace tonight. Thomas L. Hisgen, candidate for president; Clement L. Pollock, said to be a good speaker from Boston, and several other speakers are in the party, which will arrive this morning from Kausas City.

Committees are being appointed to look after the candidates when they arrive in Salt Lake, and to attend to them during the day. The Salt Palace is be-ing decorated with American flags and Held's band has been engaged to play a programme of patriotic airs between specenes.

It is expected that the meeting will be well attended because of the prominence of the speakers and the assurance of calertainment, even though there may not be as many conversions as the Independence party would wish for, Frank R. E. Woodward, editor of the Western Home-Maker of Chicago, who is in the city for the purpose of assist-ing in making arrangements for the meeting, is an ardent supporter of the meeting, is an ardent supporter of the new party and speaks enthusiastically hones and prospects.

"The opportunity is ripe for a new party to come into the field and sweep the country," said Mr. Woodward Sun-day night. "The leaders of the Indeday night. The leaders of the taken pendence party are demonstrating every day that they are after the scalps of the representatives of either party who have been negligent of their trust. Of course no party will support a man af-ter he has been found out by the public, and Mr. Hearst has certainly uncovered some astonishing conditions. It is a far cry from the methods of many of our politicians of today to the constitutional rights and privileges of the American people.

"Everybody is welcome to the meeting tonight in the Salt Palace. Even though they may not be all converted to the cause of the Independence party everybody who attends the meeting will be amply repaid for going there."

An and visitors held at the tabernacie. An organ recital was rendered and Nephi L. Morris, president of Salt Lake stake, delivered an address on "Mormonism." He began by very briefly relating its past history, declaring that it was organized on April 6, 1830, after the fashion of the primitive Christian church of the scriptimes.

Elder Morris spent the better part of the time discussing the organization and the various offices of the church, explain-ing the two divisions of the priesthood, the Meichizedek and the Aaronic. The former, he said, consisted of aposties, high priests, seventies and elders; and the high priests, seventies and closes, and the intier, priests, teachers and deacons: "At the top of the church," said the speaker, "is the president, prophet, seer and reve-lator and the mouthplece of God; and through him the Almighty communicates his messages to man."

HIGH SCHOOL NOTES Saturday afternoon at Logan the high

Saturday afternoon at Logan the high school football team lost to the Logan "Aggles" by a large score, but, nevertheless, the high school boys had a great time during their stay in Logan. Several members of the Logan leam were with the boys a large part of the time, and did everything in their power to show them a good time. There were two dances Saturday night, one a regular Saturday evening affair and the other given by the college in honor of the Salt Lake team. Tickets to both dances were given to the team, but the entire bunch spent the evening as the "Aggles" guests. The hall was decorated with college pennants and colors of both schools. The team arrivad in the city Sunday noon.

For the last three years there has been a high school handball tournament held at the Y. M. C. A. There was not a court at high school, so the Y. M. C. A. wishing to promote the sport, opened their courts to the school. The majority of those interested in the game are working hard to arrange another tournament in the near future, interest is growing and about fifty entries are expected. An entry fee is charged, which furnishes a medal for the winner, and, the Y. M. C. A. and take advantage of as several of those entering belong to the courts, a very hot finish is expected.
